

BANKING & FINANCE

With some 170 dedicated lawyers, Gide's Banking and Finance group is one of the largest and most highly regarded specialist teams amongst the major international law firms, offering French, English, New York and U.S. banking and finance law capability as well as local law expertise throughout its worldwide network.

Our lawyers have extensive experience in bank lending, capital markets and structured finance covering all types of tangible and intangible assets as well as real estate. They have well-known expertise in securitisation, bond issues and the issuance of equity securities, in both domestic and international markets, and deal with the legal aspects of over-the-counter derivative products as well as derivative products offered on regulated exchanges. We also specialise in arranging and documenting structured products on all types of underlyings (fixed income, equity, commodities, credit, weather, etc.).

Gide is regularly consulted by banks and other financial institutions concerning the regulatory aspects of their activities and has also developed an extensive experience in litigation and disciplinary proceedings in this field. Our lawyers advise and represent many financial industry associations in various jurisdictions, and have also been involved in the drafting of legislation in many countries.
