

POWER | PROJECTS

Gide's Projects (Finance & Infrastructure) practice group regularly advises clients on energy and power projects. Our lawyers have extensive experience relating to thermal, hydroelectric and nuclear energy as well as future and renewable energies. The firm has been able to develop significant expertise in key areas of the power projects sector including transaction structuring and closing, financing, regulatory and dispute resolution.

Gide's long-standing experience in international power projects encompasses (i) representing large power projects developers, (ii) structuring highly visible pilot projects when assisting governments, and (iii) representing IFIs and commercial lenders. Working closely with financial and technical advisers, our lawyers have brought a number of pioneering projects to successful financial closing.

Our broad expertise also covers both project development documentation (e.g. IPPs, Concessions/BTO, PPA, EPC, O&M agreements), and project financing documentation (e.g. facilities agreements, syndication, A/B loans, intercreditor, direct agreements, security package).

In addition, Gide boasts a dedicated renewable energy team with significant regulatory experience and a very active practice in drafting and successfully negotiating contracts for the acquisition, construction and maintenance of renewable energy projects and for their related financing. The breadth of our lawyers' practice experience includes unique expertise representing large developers and contractors in power-related arbitration proceedings.
